- We will not disclose your information to third parties without your permission unless there are exceptional circumstances, such as when the health or safety of others is at risk or where the law requires information to be passed on. You may be receiving care from other people as well as the NHS (like Social Services). We may need to share some information about you so we can all work together for your benefit. We will only ever use or pass on information about you if others involved in your care have a genuine need for it, and when we know that the same safeguards on confidentiality and security will be practiced. Anyone who receives information from us is also under a legal duty to keep it confidential and secure.
- We are required by law to report certain information to the appropriate authorities. This is only provided after formal permission has been given by a qualified health professional. Occasions when we must pass on information include: 1.) notification of new births 2.) where we encounter infectious diseases which may endanger the safety of others, such as meningitis or measles (but not HIV/AIDS) 3.) where a formal court order has been issued. Our guiding principle is that we hold and use your records in strict confidence.

If using video calling please note:

Clients should be aware that the use of any virtual system is voluntary, and you can switch to telephone should they wish to do so.

- Be careful not to disclose where you are calling from to any third party
- Advise clients that the virtual system is not a specific NHS system (if it's not) and direct clients to the virtual system privacy notice to ensure that they are happy with the system's privacy policy
- As with a face-to-face consultations, advise the client that notes are kept to facilitate behavioural support
- Establish that the client has privacy and is unlikely to be disturbed so that they can focus on the appointment
- Client video appointments should not be recorded by either party without permission
- Clients should log out of the virtual system when not in use
